

Magdalena Sobocińska
Wroclaw University of Economics and Business (Poland)

Book Review:
Museum Management: Opportunities and Threats for Successful Museums
by Milan Jan Půček and Michal Plaček and Frantisek Ochrana, Cham: Springer, 2021

DOI: 10.30819/cmse.5-2.11

Dr hab. Magdalena Sobocińska, a professor at University of Economics and Business and Lodz Film School. She is specialized in the issues associated with functioning of the market of culture, marketing research, application of Internet in marketing, marketing communication, consumption development processes, sustainable development and marketing of organic products. An author and co-author of over 200 publications in this field in the form of monographs, chapters in monographs and textbooks, and articles. She received the award of the Minister of Science and Higher Education for the doctoral dissertation entitled "Consumer behavior in the market of cultural goods." Her postdoctoral monograph: "Conditions and prospects for the development of market orientation in cultural entities" was awarded in the competition for scientific works by the Committee on Organizational and Management of the Polish Academy of Sciences. She is a co-editor of 8 issues of Scientific Papers of Wroclaw University of Economics and 3 monographs devoted to the issues of marketing research, as well as the guest editor of the Special Issue "New Technologies in Customer Value Management in the Perspective of Sustainable Development" as part of the "Sustainability" Journal. The Head of Recipient Perception and Research Studio (in Visual Narrations Laboratory at the Film School in Łódź). She is a member of the Board at the Polish Scientific Marketing Association and the International Scientific Committee of "Cultural Management: Science and Education".
Email: magdalena.sobocinska@ue.wroc.pl.
